

Mightiest of all trees, living wonders of the world, are the tall Redwoods. Nowhere are they native except in the northern coastal region of California (save a few groups in the extreme Southwestern corner of Oregon). The Redwood Highway passes through over 200 miles of primeval Redwood forest.

THE AVENUE OF GIANTS, REDWOOD HIGHWAY, CALIFORNIA